Frank Patterson, the stock partner of J. H. W. Gansen, arrived Tuesday from county, south of the Sierra Ancha mountains, on the north bank of Salt river. Mr Patterson reports grass there in better condition than for the past seven years. He assisted Sheriff Thomas in jailing Guadalupe, one of the four Apaches now held at Globe for the murder of ranch-man Ned Baker last July. Deceased lived about ten miles north of Patterson and the latter thinks the red devils plot-ted his life as well as his neighbor's. They were about his cabin for three days. Early Saturday morning they woke him up, three bucks and three squaws. Two bucks staid for breakfast, and made minute inquiries about the number of his friends. He bluffed them by claiming three or four who would be at home soon. Dandy Jim wanted to Phenix.

The interest felt by all students of the nistory of mankind, preserved for as in their works, takes to itself a peculiar in tensity when their eyes turn toward the whilom American desert. The reason is simple. Nowhere else on earth has the higher life of the stone age left behind such a multiplicity of signs from which to deduce the story of the longest period of man's history. In other lands, storms winds, water and frosts have combined to destroy the traces of the instructive grop-ing of man's blinded intellect. The constant action of climatic influences rolled down the homes and the great rivers have covered dwellings and dwellers in the darkness of their deposits. But the rainfall of Arizona is slight, cold in the southern portion rarely reaches the freez-ing point, and the sunshine does not de-stroy. The climate of Arizona has pre-served for us the almost complete remains of a unique life, as the climate of Italy preserved for a degenerate age the arts of ancient Greece, and shall we allow the petty Napoleons of science to rob Rome of her heritage for the sake of some obscure but covetous Paris? It would be of a far-sighted poticy to take the present opportunity of enriching the Territory with such a museum of antiquities as the rest of the world working together could

AN OUTSIDE VIEW

ARIZONA'S PROGRESS AS SEEN BY OTHERS. Healthy Condition of Affairs to be Noted When Agriculture Takes Precedence of Mining.

The result of the recent census Arizons, in conjunction with the report of the Acting Governor of that Territory affairs. In ten years the Territory has gained 13,560 people, and now numbers exclusive of Indians, 60,000. This indi cates a rapidly growing strength. In the reclamation and settlement wild countries, the first steps are always slow and painful. Men are not like sheep. They don't recklessly jump after a leader. A bell wether cannot in moment stampede a mob. The resource possibilities and opportunities of a place must be slowly demonstrated before set tlers commence going there in nam ties to contend against. One of the principal of these has been the recurring ou breaks of the Apaches. Men are natural ly timid about settling in a country when their stock may be run off, their hom burned, their families captured and maltreated and their lives taken at any moment. It takes wonderful inducement come such drawbacks, and undthe circumstances, a gain of over 13,000 people in ten years is a great achieve ment and indicative of a much greater degree of success in the near future The Indians have been held closely in hand of late, and there is a possibility that the request for their entire remove may be acceded to at an early day. An other outbreak will certainly induce the taking of some such step.

In his report the Acting Governo states that, while the great mining indus try is in a more healthy condition than it ever was before, more attention is being paid to agriculture. This is the health iest sign of all. When a mining country reaches that state of development it is or the verge of maturity and its after-pri gress is bound to be much more rapid We congratulate our southern neigh bor on its present standing and future ex
